The question may be asked : are we more likely to get an effective avatem of drainage under the direction of a budy of men admittedly unconversant with the subject than by community, of which 19 were among the civil hours floating about among the shipping. leaving it entirely to professional men with special training? Drainage is not a subject understood by every one. Of this we had an instance at the meeting of the Peak residents on Friday afternoon, Mr. GRANVILLE SHARP, a large property owner, a man of great experience and in most cases of sound judgment, gravely suggested tha what was the matter with the Peak drainage was that the pipes were too small and that they ought to be large enough to admit rain water; which would serre to flush them. What about the many menths in the year when there is no rain? The great object to be kept in view in all drainage works is to accelerate the current as much as possible so that the foul matter may be discharged before it has time to ferment. With a given quantity of sewage the current will of course wary in proportion to the size of the channel in which it runs, just as the current of a river is stronger in a narrow pass than over shallows. If the rain were a in this district are of a superior class, tradesmen onstant factor it could be turned to me in mostly, possessed of means, "warm men and connection with the sewerage system, but being an uncertain quantity, which would fill the drains to their utmost capacity for a ent odour of opium, so we first of all visited the high bamboo village near Rennie Hill, bit a nig GINGERADE. few hours ut a time and leave them empty flict on my readers the thrice-told tale of opium- while adjusting his painters, the villagers turned for months, the theory of an ideal system of smoking, the scene presented by the so-called out in force and frightened him away. These bodies are composed of men representing the average common some .* their dis. triot, and the professional men employed have to justify to them any new achemes they may advance. If a scheme put for ward by a professional man does not commend itself to the common sense of a representative body it may be taken for granted that there is very little good in it. We mant the average common sense of Hong kong brought directly to bear on the drainage question in this Colony. The Sanitary Board as a semi-representative institution is the best exponent we have of the common sense of the public in this direction, and to that body the control of the entire drainage of the Colony ought to be transferred. The mortality returns for the month of July ablished in Saturday's Gazette, show that there were 31 deaths among the British and Foreign population, 8 in the army, and 4 in the Navy. There were 454 deaths among the Chinese. The death rate among the British and foreign community was 35.3 per 1,000, and 303 among the Chinese. It will thus be seen that July was a very unhealthy month, the death rate among Europeans being more than double that of June.

We have all admired Mr. Ruskin, and many of us have passed through the kunkinite phase of mind. He has done more for English art than any Euglishman not an artist, and he can write about it letter than any living critic. So ong as he talks about matters which he maderstands we are ready to treasure up his speeches and pender over them, even if we believe that they embody a mistake. But he has been too often induced by foolish friends and gushing disciples to dogmatize in paradexes upon metters on which he has no special knowledge (witnesshis excursions into political economy and current politics) and has thus exposed himself to the ridicule of these who would prefer to respect him. In answer to the rather silly question wether he thought that it would be for the good supplant the Weish, he is recently reported to have, made the following very silly remarks:-God forbid! The Welsh language is the language of music. There is no genius about paragraphs in the literature of any language! Why did not Mr. Ruskin write his "Modern Painters" in Welsh or Gaelic if they are so superior to the English language? If he does not know enough Welsh or Gaelio to write in either language, why does he dogmatize about is always an interesting domment. That for 1888 is now before us. From it we find that the average strength of the army last year was 211,105 of all ranks, made up of 7,332 officers, 682 warrant officers, and the rest non-commissioned officers and men. The total strength of the army at home on January 1, 1889, was 103.047. Egypt took 3.389; the Colonies. 28.941; and India, 74,045. There were wanting to complete establishments on January 1, 1889, 1,326. the largest numbers under this head being 360 in the case of Colonial Corps, 340 for Garrison Artiflery, 195 for Foot Guards, 171 for Royal Engineers, and 145 for Royal Horse Artillery. But against this has to be 700 supernumeraries -78 in the cavalry of the Line, 616 in the infantry of the Line. Act This leaves a total deficiency of 626. A table showing the average strength of the army for twenty years gives a very satisfactory result. It appears from this that last year's numbers were considerably in advance of those of any previous period. But though the total strength has increased, the number of officers has fallen off considerably, a fact upon which economical members of larlisment have reason to congratulate themselves. The total number of recruits who joined the Archeologists will be interested to hear that army in 1888 was 25.153. of which 23.158 were recruiting months were January, when 3,001 were enrolled; February, 2,323; and November. 2.518; the worst being April and May, 1.598 and the regimental district organisation, of whom 7.083 were passed into the ranks of their local At a dinner party the host, a very awkward regiments, the remainder being for general ser-

The tortoise at Peterborough cathedral was a still H. & W. Dock..... more wonderful one even than its Lambeth brother, for it was known to be over 180 years old when it died, also from an accident, and Bishop Jouns had its shell preserved, with an inscription narrating its age and history.

The depths of the ocean, not far from the Galley Head, on the west coast of Ireland, are being explored by a body of divers in search of a long lost treasure, amounting to between £40,000 and £60,000. It appears that so far back as twenty years ago a large ship, named the Crescent City, was wrecked at the spot mentioned. and sank in sixteen fathoms of water, with a large amount of specie in gold on board. Shortly afterwards divers were sent down, who after much difficulty, in securing £16,000, but were unable to get near the remaining portion of the gold in consequence of the then intact state of the ship's hull lying in such deep water. Further attempts were then abandoned by the divers, and nothing since was done to recover the balance of the specie until quite recently, when one of the divers, Mr. O'Hara, Liverpool, who surveyed the Crescent City shortly after she had foundered. negotiated with the underwriters and purchased the ship as she now lies at the bottom of the sea. Mr. O' Hara has made Clonakilty his headquarters. He has an efficient staff of divers under his command to explore the bull of the vessel, which he considers to be completely broken up by the time; and therefore feels confideent of getting possession of the sunkon treasure and retiring an independent man. Boards each 100 feet long and six feet in width would be a sight worth seeing, but piles made of such timber are common at the mills in Puget Sound, North Pacific. According to a traveller just returned from a visit to that coast boards of those dimensions, and without a knot in them, are common cuts from the gigantic fir trees of the Puget Sound forests. These trees grow to the enormous height of 250 feet, and the forests are so vast that, although the saw mills have been ripping 500,000,000 feet of lumber out of them every year for ten years, the spaces made by these tramendous inroads seem no more than garden patches. Paget Sound has 1,800 miles of shore line, and all along this live, and extending thence on both sides miles and miles farther than the eye can see, is one vast and almost unbroken forest of these enormous trees. There is nothing like it anywhere on the Pavific coast. An official estimate places the amount of standing timber in that area at 500,000,000,000 feet, representing a constant supply for one thousand yours even at the enormous rate the timber is now being felled and sawed. The timber belt covers 30.(a) .000 acres of Washington Territory, an area equal to the States of Vermont, Massachusetts, Connectiont, and New Hampshire. The markets for the Puget Sound lumber are entirely foreign, being South America, Australia, Central America, and the Pacific coast islands.

The Supreme Court of Indiana was recently called upon to review a non-suit in an action brought to recover damages for being struck down on a sidewalk by a bicycle rider. The trial court had held that bicycling was a form of pedestrianating, and that the bicyclers had as much right on the sidewalk as any pedestrian. The appeal from the non-suit was argued in the forencon. When the court adjourned for dinner. Judges Coffey and Berkshire started to walk to their hotel, and as they were passing out of the capitol grounds a clumsy bicycle rider ran into them, knocking both down, and badly bruising the former. This practical argument had such a convincing effect on the minds of the learned judges that they immediately overruled their forth that a person who "rudely and recklessly rides a bicycle against a man standing on a sidewalk is responsible for damages for assault and battery. After quoting an Indiana law forbidding persons from riding or driving on the sidewalks, the Court says :- "If sidewalks are exclusively for the use of footmen, then bicycles, if they are vehicles, must not be ridden along them, since to affirm that sidewalks are exclusively for the use of footmen necessarily implies that they cannot be travelled by bioyc'es. It would be : palpable contradiction to affirm that footmen have the exclusive right to use the sidewalks and yet concede that persons not travelling as pedestrians may also rightfully use them. We think, however, that a bicycle must be regarded as a vehicle within the meaning of the law."

reason that, until shortly before his death, he had never paid off his early liabilities. The fortune left him by Mr. Brydges Williams cleared them off, and he paid every penny he Lady Beaconsfield's fortune was hers only for her life, and she was not able to leave him snything of importance, but in the early part of his married life she assisted him with his election expenses, and, except for his marriage, the probability is he could never have stemmed the tide of money difficulties which always hampered him. In the first days of their friendship Lady Beaconstield must have helped him largely, for a circumstantial story was told by the Conservative agent at Maidstone, for which place Lord Beaconsfield sat-that at his first election, when things looked bad for the

WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. 18 An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinary, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are the mails for Europe, &c. by the English and here given in extenso. Each and every word is French Packets, when they leave at NOON. The fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises | Money Order Office will be closed at 5 P.M. the for students of a most instructive nature. Both day before.

the Court and Punti pronunciations are given | 8.00 A.M. - Posting of Prices Current and Cirthe accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

following facts are submitted for consideration: this the same late fee. Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese chargeters. POST-OFFICE NOTICES

Peak delivery. Letter boxes have been placed in the tram cars and correspondence will be delivered by the twelve and four o'clock cars only. Local rates will be charged. Correspondence addressed to the Peak may be posted in of departure. Correspondence from the Peak and four o'clock. Parcels for the Peak may be posted in the General Fost Office only up to 11.30 a.m. and 3.30 p.m. There will be no Sunday delivery. Covers containing bank notes, jewellery, &c., should not be posted. To avoid robbery senders of letters are requested to cancel their stamps by writing the word 'stamped' across them.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addresses need do is to note on the cover, Sent to ---- , or Received at 7 p.m., or as the osse may be, and forward in without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.

The Postal Guide for 1889, revised to date. will be found in the Daily Press Directory. p. 739 of both editions, is the only authorised complete Summary of Postal information published in Hongkong.
